1. Part of the production staff now in the Pirna-Sonnenstein compound of the former HV 18 (present name: Main Administration for Industrial Requirements) will be transferred to the Dresden-Hellerau airfield during 1955. The latter locality will become the seat of the production staff of the Main Administration for Industrial Requirements. The Pirna Sonnenstein compound will remain under the Main Administration and will become its research and development center.
2. In mid-April 1955, the Dresden-Hellerau airfield was being expanded for use by jet-propelled aircraft. By mid-April 1955, a large number of dredges furnished by the East German Government were employed there for ground work. Several hundred workers of Bau-Union Sued, one of the two construction offices working for the Ministry of the Interior, were engaged in the expansion of the airfield.
3. Evacuation of residences in Dresden-Hellerau, particularly of residences located on the road leading to the airfield (Flughafenstrasse), was in full swing as of mid-April 1955. The evacuated residences are for use by the Pirna-Sonnenstein personnel who are to be transferred in the near future to Dresden-Hellerau. Families evacuated from their Dresden-Hellerau residences were temporarily housed in two casern blocks.
